Matter Is No Longer One on Which Post Office Can Act Without Authority.

ITS BEST OFFER DECLINED.

All the Inducements Possible to Hold Out to the Railroad Are Deemed to Be Insufficient to Justify New Train.

Republic Birreau.

14th St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

Washington, March 22.—General Shallguberger, Second Assistant Postmaster General, states that no decision has been reached in regard to the putting on of an carly morning fast mall on the Frisco line The railroad people, he explains, have not found that they can get business enough to warrant them in incurring the additional expense. The department has informed them what amount of mail can, under the regulations and practice, be diverted to this route, if the train is put on. The railread management says it is insufficient. General Shallenberger states that this makes it impossible for him to take any further action in the master at present. Congress may authorize an appropriation for special facilities on the Frisco, but this, he explairs, is a somewhat difficult matter to have cone. Congress, he states, and the department also, desire to cut down appropriations of this character, rather than increase them.

There are but two lines for which such appropriations are made and whenever the bills for their continuance come before Congress there is a sharp fight against them. He thinks it would be very difficult to get favorable action on an item of this kind for the Frisco line, but does not in-School Committee of the Synod of Ohio, it, if the people of St. Louis urge its passage by Congress.

sage by Congress.

Senator Cockrell is interested in the matter and is trying to find a means of securing this much-nected facility for the business interests of St. Lauis. The Senator is not ready to say what can be accumplished, but he is working hard on the case and has some injest of success in spite of the difficulties that have been met by other similar propositions in the past.

It is clear, however, that the matter is no longer one upon which the department can act without authority of Congress, General Shalienberger gave a good deal of attention to it and has had considerable communication with the railroad managers. He has gone, he says, as far as the law and postal regulations will permit in an effort to throw sufficient mail transpertution to the proposed train to warrant its being tun at a profit, but as the railroad people say it is not enough, the question most rest there until something is done at the Capitol, in the way of a special appropriation.

The hotel was built upon a hill at the outskirts of the city, and no other buildings were near enough to be in danger. The botel was erected in the summer of 122 by a stock company at a cost of 25,000. In connection with the hotel were the Carisbad mineral springs, noted for their curative powers and which were named after the famous springs of Germany. An analysis of the local waters found them of the same composition as the German waters. The hotel was used as a summer resort, and for the last three scasons was in charge of the Woman's dristian Home of St. Louis, who used the institution as a place of recreation for the working girls of St. Louis at a nominal cost. Mrs. Springer of that city, well known for her philanthropic work, has been in charge.

At present the hotel was unoccupied and was being prepared for the summer heason. The stock company owning the building has the following officers: President, Zenas P. Forman, vice president, Newton F. Jones: secretary and treasurer. William S. Forman, President Forman, when seen locally, stated that the building and contents were insurance companies.
